

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Andrew Ridgely, who recently worked with our team as a freelance website creator. From start to finish, he was a pleasure to work with and delivered a high-quality website that was exactly what we needed.

Throughout the project, Andrew was extremely communicative, responsive, and professional. He took the time to understand our goals and vision, asked questions, and provided us with regular updates throughout the process. He was able to listen carefully to our feedback and make accurate, timely adjustments that reflected exactly what we were hoping for.

In addition to designing and building the site, Andrew successfully navigated the transfer of our website domain to a new host. He made excellent recommendations on where to move our domain, which saved us both time and money. This part of the process could have been stressful, but Andrew's knowledge and calm approach made it seamless.

To ensure we could confidently manage the site on our own moving forward, he also created a clear, easy-to-follow instructional video that walks us through how to make updates and edits ourselves – a useful touch that shows how much he cares about client empowerment and long-term usability.

We would gladly work with Andrew again and highly recommend him to anyone looking for a skilled and dependable website professional.

Sincerely,
